

A new state of the art play building at Cornwallis Adventure Playground

Cornwallis Adventure Playground

Cornwallis Adventure Playground is one of Islington's most popular adventure playground sites and has been a key provider of play opportunities within the Borough for over 45 years.

To ensure this continues the existing timber log cabin building, which has become run-down and dilapidated, will be demolished and replaced with a new state of the art play building.

The new adventure play building will;

- be built using sustainable materials and modern construction methods
- be thermally efficient with a low operational carbon footprint
- create a healthy indoor environment with good air quality
- have lots of natural light to support wellbeing
- support and facilitate a range of indoor and outdoor free play activities
- be able to host activities for schools, children's parties & community events
- involve the local community in the design and construction process

Meet the architects on Saturday 20th March 2021

Our architects will be introducing the project and presenting their ideas at our first online discussion. Please, come along and tell us what you think.
